The Apostles Creed

*I believe in God, the Father Almighty, Creator of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ, His only Son, our Lord, who was conceived by the Holy Spirit, born of the Virgin Mary,
suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, died and was buried;
He descended into hell; on the third day He rose again from the dead;
He ascended into heaven, and is seated at the right hand of God the Father Almighty;
from there He will come to judge the living and the dead.
I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Holy Catholic Church,
the communion of Saints, the forgiveness of sins,
the resurrection of the body, and life everlasting. Amen.*

Monsignor Lightbound Remembered & Priestly Vocations

Bishop Mark writes, "It was good to see so many clergy and people come together at Bromborough for the Requiem Mass for Monsignor Chris Lightbound. We remembered his love and service of the Diocese and his fascination with its past which led him to write on many historical subjects from the conversion of the Wirral Vikings to the Recusant Missal of Lyme Hall. However, in an article he sent me that had been published at the turn of the century in Priests and People he looked to the future ending with these words about priestly vocations: "We wring our hands over the lack of priestly vocations. Are we presenting too respectable an image of the priesthood? I believe that there are many generous young people 'out there' who would respond more readily to a call to radical self-sacrifice in imitation of the Master. Their contemporaries are lost without Christ. Will they come to their aid? They need to hear this kindly but challenging voice: "If you would be perfect, go, sell what you possess and give to the poor ... and come, follow me." Chris's reflection reminded me of a similar point made in Father Stephen Rossetti's book "The Joy of the Priesthood" published some years later where Father Rossetti writes: "Priesthood is difficult. Ironically, we might actually have more vocations to the priesthood if our young people realised how challenging this life really is ... Young people want a life of meaning and challenge. Priesthood, when lived with integrity, is such a life."
